8. Protection of assets

You must use your best efforts to protect the Group's assets to ensure availability for legitimate business purposes and to ensure all corporate opportunities are enjoyed by the Group and that no property, information or position belonging to the Group or opportunity arising from these are used for personal gain or to compete with the Group.

9. Protection of confidential information

Confidential Information is information that the Group considers to be confidential and that is not generally available outside the Group and may include information of third parties to which the Group has access. It includes information that the Group owns, develops, pays to have developed or to which it has an exclusive right.

The Group and all directors, officers and employees must ensure that they do not disclose any Confidential Information to any third party or other Personnel who do not have a valid business reason for receiving that information unless:

- a) permitted or required under relevant laws or regulations; or
- b) agreed by the person or organisation whose information it is.

If Confidential Information is required to be provided to third parties or other Personnel for valid business purposes, the Group and its Personnel must:

- a) take adequate precautions to seek to ensure that the information is only used for those purposes for which it is provided and is not misused or disseminated to the Group's detriment. Such precautions include obtaining a confidentiality agreement or other undertaking (advice about these measures can be obtained from the Company Secretary); and
- b) take steps to ensure that the information is returned or destroyed when the purpose is complete.

These obligations continue to apply to you after your employment or engagement with the Group ends.

You are expected to abide by all applicable legal and regulatory requirements, and are expected to respect and care for the environment in which the Group operates.

12. Privacy

The Group respects your privacy and the privacy of others.

You should familiarise yourself with, and comply with:

- the privacy laws of Australia and, where applicable, the jurisdiction of your business unit; and
- any privacy policies the Group has in place which detail the appropriate use of personal information.

If you have any questions about privacy, please contact the Company Secretary.

13. Fair trading and dealing

The Group will deal with others in a way that is fair and will not engage in deceptive practices.

When dealing with others, you must perform your duties in a professional manner, act with integrity and objectivity, and strive at all times to enhance the Group's reputation and performance.

14. Gifts and hospitality

From time to time you may receive gifts or hospitality in connection with or arising from your connection with the Group (Gift). You must not give, seek or accept any Gift which goes beyond common courtesies associated with general commercial practice.

You must wherever possible declare any Gift prior to receipt. If it is impractical or impossible to do so, you must disclose the Gift to the Company Secretary as soon as practicable after its receipt with full details of the background of the gift.

You must refuse or return (as the case may be) the Gift if directed to do so by the Company Secretary.

15. Financial and other inducements

Most countries, including Australia, have specific legislation prohibiting any person or company from offering a bribe to a government official or for an official to receive a bribe.

It is a criminal offence to bribe a foreign public official under the Criminal Code Act 1995 (Cth) (Criminal Code). Australian companies or individuals that bribe a foreign public official can be prosecuted under Australian law and the laws of foreign countries. There are potentially serious consequences for breaching the Criminal Code, including fines and imprisonment. The high penalties for foreign bribery reflect the seriousness of bribery and its consequences. In addition to criminal penalties, any benefits obtained by foreign bribery can be forfeited to the Australian Government under the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 (Cth).

The offence of bribing a foreign public official has a number of elements, all of which must be present for the offence to apply. A person is guilty of an offence if:

- a) the person provides a benefit to another person or offers or promises to provide a benefit to another person or causes a benefit to be provided, offered or promised to another; and
- b) the benefit is not legitimately due to the other person; and
- c) the conduct described in paragraph (a) was carried out with the intention of influencing a foreign public official (who may or may not be the other person) in the exercise of the official's duties as a foreign public official in order to obtain or retain business or obtain or retain a business advantage which is not legitimately due.

A benefit can be non-monetary or intangible inducement offered directly to the foreign public official. It also includes benefits provided or offered by an agent. It is not relevant that the benefit is considered customary or perceived to be customary or tolerated.

The Group does not permit or condone the making of payments (including payments in kind such as gifts, favours, etc.) to influence individuals to award business opportunities to the Group or to make business decisions in the Group's favour. You must not give or offer to anyone a gift, bribe, inducement, favour or payment of any kind in expectation of preferred treatment of the Group, its employees or anyone associated with the Group.

In some countries in which the Group operates, employees may be asked to make small payments to low-level public officials or government employees, which are sometimes called facilitation payments. These payments are sought to expedite or bring about routine services or actions by those individuals.

The Group does not support making these payments as a matter of policy, and expects employees and officers to make every effort to avoid them.

Where a payment of this kind cannot be resisted the payment must, at a minimum, be approved by the employee's supervisor and be accounted for clearly and accurately. A record must be kept detailing the value of the benefit, the date on which the conduct occurred, the identity of the foreign public official and particulars of the routine government action that was sought to be expedited or secured.

In addition, the Group must maintain an accurate and auditable record of all financial transactions in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. This includes maintaining appropriate records of all gifts, entertainment and payments to government officials, employees and others. Entries should not distort or disguise the true nature of any transaction.

This Code does not prohibit any payments, including facilitation payments, where these payments are made in accordance with the Criminal Code and this Code of Conduct.

This section of the Code of Conduct also applies to agents and third parties who are engaged by the Group to represent its interests.

16. Consequences of breach

Any breach of compliance with this Code of Conduct is to be reported directly to the Chair (chairman@pioneercredit.com.au), Managing Director (krjohn@pioneercredit.com.au), or Report and Investigation Officer (report&investigationofficer@pioneercredit.com.au), as appropriate. Anyone breaching this Code of Conduct may be subject to disciplinary action, including termination.

The Board has also adopted a Whistleblower Policy to encourage reporting of breaches (or suspected breaches) and to provide effective protection from victimisation or dismissal to those reporting by implementing systems for confidentiality and report handling.

17. Review of Code of Conduct

The Company will monitor compliance with this Code of Conduct periodically by liaising with Personnel. Suggestions for improvements or amendments to this Code of Conduct can be made at any time by providing a written note to the Managing Director.

The Board will review this Code of Conduct at least annually and the policy will be subject to Board approval if any updates are made.
